

A Holiday Moment at Home: Celebrating Creativity This Season

The holidays are a time when homes truly come alive. Kitchens become gathering places, living rooms turn into stages, and everyday spaces are filled with warmth, conversation, and creativity. It's a season defined not just by décor or tradition, but by the moments shared inside the spaces we call home.

At Marble.com, our work goes beyond materials and finishes. We help create the spaces where life happens — where families gather, traditions are formed, and memories are made. During the holidays especially, those spaces are filled with music, celebration, and personal expression.

This season, we're proud to spotlight a creative moment from our extended community.

A Holiday Performance from an Emerging Artist

Richie is an emerging artist exploring music through guitar and original compositions. As part of his creative journey, he recorded a special holiday performance for the 2025/26 season — a simple, intimate piece that captures the spirit of the holidays and the feeling of being at home.

Music has a unique way of transforming a space. A single melody can turn a quiet room into a shared experience, bringing people together in a way few things can. This performance is a reminder that creativity doesn't need a stage — it often starts right at home.

Where Spaces Become Moments

From holiday meals prepared in the kitchen to quiet evenings filled with music, every home tells a story. The environments we live in shape how we experience these moments — how we gather, how we celebrate, and how we create.

Supporting creativity, craftsmanship, and the next generation of makers and artists is part of our broader philosophy. Whether it's through the spaces we help build or the people we choose to spotlight, we believe homes are meant to be lived in — and filled with meaning.

Wishing You a Creative Holiday Season

As the year comes to a close, we hope this performance brings a moment of calm, inspiration, and warmth to your holiday season. May your home be filled with music, creativity, and memories that last well beyond the holidays.

To learn more about Richie and his music journey, visit iamrichie.com.